

Australian Alliance of Associations in Education

Leading through collaborative action

www.aaae.edu.au

The Australian Alliance of Associations in Education (AAAE) represents and speaks on behalf of Australian national professional teacher associations and aims to provide a 'grass roots' teacher voice that:

- develops future educational policy by providing the voice of the teaching profession to inform jurisdictions, governments and media
- builds strategic consultative partnerships with other national associations, governments and jurisdictions to inform and support the development and review of education policy and initiatives
- is well-positioned to play an integral role in making a professional contribution to the education landscape in Australia using its vast reach via national professional teacher associations
- has the capacity and networks to value-add to the work and ongoing professional learning for teachers.

Australian national professional teacher associations developing strategic educational partnerships

The AAAE is a constituted body with the purpose of representing and speaking on behalf of Australian national professional teacher associations. It was established in 2013.

AAAE members are national professional teacher associations that are largely funded by membership fees, the production of teaching resources and the provision of professional learning for teachers. They are not dependent on, or in receipt of government or jurisdictional support at the state or national level and are therefore apolitical and independent.
